

Sampler Lecture 5, Howlite:

Questions...

Q1: What colour is Howlite? What colour should it not be?

Q2: What do the silvery inclusions do?

Q3: What are the key words to indicate a feminine or masculine influence, according to the author?

Q4: Which influence is Howlite offering?

Q5: Is Howlite responsible for attracting light into the throat chakra, as in the example given in the lecture.

Q6: Explain, then, how Howlite works with the throat chakra and the other chakras.

Q7: Which polarity, negative or positive, does Howlite work to enhance?

Q8: What specific body part does Howlite work with?

Q9: What feature of Howlite makes it harmonious and compatible with the various places on the body that it is placed?

Q10: Why (from the previous question)?

Q11: What other role does the white colour play?

Q12: What is the colloquial expression coined for Howlite?

Answers...

A1: Howlite is white with silvery inclusions. It should not be any other colour.

A2: Silvery inclusions in Howlite help to conduct the flow of energy and light as they pass through the stone.

A3: Feminine is attracting and repelling. Masculine is extension and withdrawal.

A4: Howlite brings the feminine influence of attraction and repulsion of light frequencies.

A5: No.

A6: Howlite enhances the polarity of the vibration that already exists within the chakras.

A7: Howlite enhances whichever polarity already exists within the form upon which it is offering its influence.

A8: Howlite is generic, and therefore, not specific to any body part. It will work wherever it is placed on the body.

A9: The white colour of its mass.

A10: Howlite's vibration needs to be consistent with the vibration of the form or body part upon which it is placed. White colour indicates the full range of all light frequencies, which implies that the frequencies that resonate with the body part upon which it is placed, are included. Because Howlite brings all light frequencies, it can work with any body part.

A11: White is purity. Purity ensures no contamination or harm will come to form due to Howlite's influence.

A12: Howlite is the "feminine enhancer".